until I die. I have always wanted to dress as a man ever since I was fifteen years of age. Yes, I smoke and chew tobacco and drink, too, when I feel like it, but I always behave myself."

"Velas" confided to Dr. Senner the name of her lawyer in this city, who was at once notified of the presence of his eccentric charge at the Barge Office. An hour later a cab drove up to the Barge Office and ex-Judge Dittenhoefer alighted. He shook hands cordially with the singular young woman.

Arrangements were at once made for her sailing on the Friedrich der Grosse, and when she went aboard the steamship she had discarded her cowboy attire for a black cutaway coat and trousers, patent leather shoes, derby hat, tan gloves, a walking stick, standing collar and a box of cigarettes.

From the ill concealed smiles on the faces of Judge Nostrand and his clerks and attendants at the time of the issuing of the warrants it was a 100 to 1 chance, in the language of the fraternity, that the persons for whom the papers called would ever be arrested.

Henley-on-Thames, England, July were almost even at the finish. The time was 35.35.

Winnipeg Are Popular.
The fourth heat for the Stewards' Challenge Cup was won by New College, Oxford, who beat the Winnipeg Rowing Club.
The winners had the Bertha station. The Winnipeg were an eighth of a length ahead at the end of Temple Island, rowing forty strokes to the minute, as against thirty-seven for New. They then drew out and at the end of Temple Island, the half-mile stake was reached in 3 minutes and 34 seconds.

When beyond Farley Court boat-house New College, in a few powerful strokes, drove their boat even with the Winnipeg.
At the three-quarter stake the Winnipeg were half a length behind, and from that point, although they spurred grandly and at one time decreased the lead of New to three or four feet, they never could catch the Oxford, who finished winners by a length, in the record time of 7 minutes and 35 seconds.

The steering of the Winnipeg was decidedly better than yesterday's, and they were less exhausted than their rivals.
At the finish the Winnipeg proposed three cheers for New College, the men in the New boat heartily responded, and the cheer was caught up on the shore, after which the Winnipeg were loudly cheered in return. The captain of the Winnipeg said:

Had to Beat a Record.
"It was the best race we ever rowed; and as it is our first experience on the Henley course we ought to be satisfied with having rowed equal to the old record." The only trouble was that our rivals rowed four seconds better than the record.
We were beaten by a better crew." The Winnipeg after the race (with New College) were greeted on every side in the most cordial fashion, all the English crews going to the finish of the race, and complimenting them upon their plucky behavior and praising them for their sportsman-like way in which they accepted defeat. They will sail for home on August 29. Murphy, the trainer, said: "I would like to have seen them win, but I may say that whenever the Winnipeg are defeated the record is always lowered. The boat was not altogether satisfactory."

The eighth trial heat for the Diamond Sculls was won by B. H. Howell, Trinity Hall, Cambridge, who beat G. McHenry, Thames Rowing Club. The winner had the Bertha station. Howell defeated McHenry with the greatest ease. The time was 8 min. 58 sec. Howell got away first. At the top of the island he was leading and he was quite clear of his opponent at Rectory Gate, when McHenry was rowed to a standstill.

WITELAW REID VICTORIA'S GUEST.

The Ambassador and Mrs.
Reid Dine at Windsor Castle.

London, July 15.—Witelaw Reid visited the Queen at Windsor Castle to-day by special invitation. He was accompanied by Mrs. Reid.

He travelled down by the Great Western Railway from London, and arrived at the royal borough shortly before 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

A royal carriage was in waiting at the depot, and in it Mr. Reid and his wife were driven to the Castle.

On their arrival they lunched, and afterward had a very cordial audience with the Queen.

Subsequently Mr. and Mrs. Reid went out for a drive, both within the borders of and outside the royal demesne, afterward returning to the castle.

At night they dined with the Queen, Princess Henry of Battenberg, and the Countess Feodore Gleichen. They slept at the Castle, the apartments allotted them being in the Lancaster tower.

To-morrow morning Mr. and Mrs. Reid will terminate their visit at the Castle and return to London.

MRS. COUTANT'S DIVORCE.
She Says Her Husband Deceived Her About the Annuity of His First Marriage.

Poughkeepsie, July 15.—Mrs. Laura Multen Coutant, formerly a prominent organist of this city, has commenced an action for divorce against her husband, "Lord" Willie Coutant, of Newburg. The papers were served yesterday. Coutant has trouble with his first wife before the wedding. His money was over, and after a short time announced that he had procured an annuity of $40,000 a year from the State of Massachusetts. The second wife, however, now alleges that this order was a forgery.

Before her marriage to Coutant Miss Multen was the organist of the Baptist Church, in this city. Coutant's first eccentric escape was when three years ago he was found at Hartford, where he posed as the Mayor of Newburg.

HIS PICTURE WON HER.
Olney's Face, Depicted in a Patent Medicine Advertisement, Brought Him a $40,000 Bride.

Corning, N. Y., July 15.—A. H. Olney, of Gibson, a student of this city, left for Denver last evening to be married. He had been cured of a patent medicine for a cough, and had written a testimonial to that effect, which the proprietors of the remarkable cure had used as an advertisement, accompanied by a large picture of Olney.

He got a letter from a Denver woman, who said, judging from his picture, she was the one he wanted to marry. He, stating that she had a fortune of $40,000.

After some correspondence she became impressed, and again wrote to Mr. Olney, enclosing $75 for him to come on at once and get married.

EARTHQUAKE IN AUSTRIA.
The Second Shock Did Great Damage to Buildings and Property.

Vienna, July 15.—At Trieste, thirty-five miles northeast of Trieste, a slight earthquake shock occurred this morning at 4 o'clock. It was followed just before 7 o'clock by one much more severe. The latter lasted six seconds. Great damage was done to many buildings, walls were split open and people were panic stricken. The loss of property is very heavy.

SWears He Did So Tickle.

As He Is Eighty-three Years Old, Is

Ladder, the Charge Against Him Is Dismissed.

The name of Lazarus Morgenthau is known all over New York. He is a philanthropist whose hobby is the encouragement of matrimony. To promote the work of berger, "that Mr. Morgenthau also tickled her under the chin. She says she got very mad at this and was tempted to throw Mr. Morgenthau down and sit on him, but controlled herself. Then, she said, she thought of telling her husband, but refrained from doing so because she was afraid her husband might take the family honor in his own hands and chastise Mr.

Morgenthau."

Mr. Greenberger bridled up at this and looked hard at Mr. Morgenthau. Macle-strate Hedges once more hid his face behind the package of papers, while Mr. Morgenthau gazed at Mrs. Greenberger with the utmost astonishment, depleted on his features.

"Did he put his arm around your neck?" queried Lawyer Mumford. "Yah," responded Mrs. Greenberger, complacently.

The Magistrate on Accessories.
"Does the lady," asked Magistrate Hedges, "allege that Mr. Morgenthau, in the alleged demonstrations of affection, made use of a chair, ladder, or other mechanical assistant to the overcoming of the disparity in sizes?"

"Yah," said Mrs. Greenberger.
"Mr. Levy explained that his client was a kind, good old man, a benefactor of the human race and a promoter of matrimony by means of the Matrimonial Endowment Bureau. Literally translated, he said, Mr.
Morgenthau's name means 'morning dew,' and he asserted that the old man is as mild as his name signifies."

The trouble, he said, arose from the fact that Mr. Morgenthau has discharged Green-berger and his wife and ordered them to leave his house. This, the Greenbergers admitted.
Magistrate Hedges advised them all to go home and be good. The Greenbergers were told to leave Mr. Morgenthau's house without causing him any trouble, and Mr. Mor-genthau was advised to let them go without causing them any trouble. Then Mrs.
Greenberger took herself and her husband out of the courtroom while Mr. Morgenthau hastened away in another direction in the

This Young Girl Has Worn Costumes Like These for Years.

Her name is not known. She sailed for Bremen yesterday, dressed like a dapper youth, with cutaway, trousers and derby. She gave the name Alyavozro Velas, having come from Mexico dressed as a rancher. She is wealthy and receives money regularly from her parents as she travels from place to place.

dressed in the garb of a fashionable young man, who by good rights should have worn skirts and a shirt waist.

Masquerading under the name of "Aly-avozro Velas" and in the attire of a man, this young woman has been travelling the globe, earning her own living and subjecting herself to many hardships, simply because she "wants to be a man."

She arrived here from Vera Cruz as a second cabin passenger on the Ward Line steamship Segurana, which reached port late Wednesday night, there being at that time no suspicion that she was other than what she claimed to be.

She was conspicuously attired in the garb of a Mexican rancher. She wore a wide sombrero, rawhide boots, equipped with spurs, a coarse cloth suit of plaid, a blue flannel shirt, around the collar of which was tied a flowing scarf, while around her slim, neat waist was a broad leather belt.

As a second cabin passenger she came under the supervision of the immigration authorities, and there was something about her walk which presently made the registrars of immigrants say to himself, "I'll bet four dollars she is a woman." "Velas" was then summoned to Commissioner Senner's office.

"Are you a man or woman?" asked Dr.
Senner.

"I am a man, sir," was the indignant response. Her voice quavered, however, and the authorities were not satisfied. Seeing that she was suspected by more than one person, the tourist finally broke down and confessed her secret. She was then turned over to the matron, who subsequently reported that the masculine make-up of the costume she wore was most artfully constructed.

To Commissioner Senner "Velas" said calmly: "Well, what if I am a woman; have I not a right to dress as I please? I shall certainly never wear women's clothes again. They are detestable to me. I want to be a man. It is my life's desire. That God made me a woman is not my fault."

She then said that her father was a distinguished Spanish official living at Manilla, in the Philippine Islands, where she was born, twenty-four years ago. Her mother, she said, is an Englishwoman, who is wealthy in her own right. The name "Velas" she said, was entirely assumed.
She refused to tell her real name.

"I was educated in England," she added,
"and can speak five languages, Spanish, French, German, Italian and English. I have travelled all over the world dressed was in evidence at the Brighton Beach race track yesterday. He fled like a frightened ostrich when he saw the Journal man in the betting ring.

Captain Brown has taken his Chapmanesque whiskers to the White Mountains for a week's recreation in the vigorous breezes prevailing there. The warrants were put in his hands Wednesday evening, and he left Thursday morning, but coincidences may, of course, happen anywhere. Sergeant Buchanan and Detective Kelsor, to whom the warrants were bequeathed, say they never saw or heard of any one of the nine men interested in the game that ran so nicely at Van Buren's for three weeks.
They must, they say, have the men pointed out to them before they can make an arrest.

A peculiar incident in the issuance of the warrants is worth noting here. They were signed by Judge Nostrand at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. At 2:30 o'clock they had not reached the Sheepshead Bay Police Station. At 3 o'clock, when a Journal reporter reached the Brighton Beach track, Captain Brown told him that he had just received word through a mounted policeman of his staff that the warrants had arrived at his station. He also said that he could not bother to get them until evening, as his race track duties were onerous.
Five minutes before the reporter had seen six of the nine men connected with the "skin" game in and around the betting ring. The three missing were the ones for whom the warrants had been issued.
Did they know that warrants had been sworn out for them, or was their non-appearance simply another coincidence?

At any rate, as the matter now stands, the police of the Sheepshead Bay Station have done nothing since the exposure last Monday morning of the meanest gambling den that even Coney Island has ever known. They have had warrants placed in their hands, and have had every assistance at the hands of the Journal's reporters. The attention of Commissioner Welles and of Inspector McKelvey was called to the existence of the game. It is now called to the inefficiency of their police.

LADY SCOTT OUT OF JAIL.
Bouquets for the Released Mother-in-Law Who Said Awful Things of Earl Russell.

London, July 15.—Lady Salina Scott, mother-in-law of Earl John Francis Russell, who in January last was sentenced to eight months imprisonment for criminally libelling him, was released this morning from Holloway jail.

A party of lady friends awaited her outside the prison yard and presented her with bouquets. A large crowd gathered in the vicinity and cheered Lady Scott as she drove away.

and one Englishman are left for the semifinals to-morrow. They are Dr. McDowell, of Chicago, who defeated T. J. Hogan, of Ireland; E. H. Ten Eyck, of Worcester, Mass., who vanquished J. J. Blusse, of the De Hoop Rowing Club; B. H. Howell, of Trinity Hall, Cambridge, an American studying in England, who beat G. Mc-Henry, Thames Rowing Club, and H. T.
Blackstaffe, an Englishman.

McDowell will row against Blackstaffe and Ten Eyck will meet Howell.
The Winnipeg four were beaten by the New College crew to-day, so the Diamond Sculls trophy is the only one which can now be won by the Americans.

The race won by Ten Eyck may prove fatal to his opponent. Ten Eyck and Blusse started even, but the American promptly poked the nose of his boat in front, and when it had cleared the island was three quarters of a length ahead, rowing a stroke of thirty-five to the minute.

At the quarter-mile stake he had a lead of two lengths. About half way down the course Blusse stopped, completely rowed out. Ten Eyck had at no time exerted himself, except for a moment or so immediately after the start. But his form then quite surprised his English critics. His time was 9:16.

Ten Eyck's Opponent May Die.
Blusse, after the race, was taken in a fainting condition to the boat house, where the physicians found he is suffering from a sunstroke. To-night he is hanging between life and death.

In consequence of the widely spread reports that the elder Ten Eyck had endeavored to keep the practice house of the younger a secret, public opinion has been rather cool toward the Massachusetts oar-man. In some quarters a very decided feeling of hostility has been expressed. Young Ten Eyck's style does not suit the English, and they say so.

The second day of the regatta was fo-reached with beautiful weather. A light wind blew up the course. The attendance was much better than yesterday.

McDowell and Hogan rowed the fifth trial heat for the Diamond Sculls. Hogan got away first, and soon led by half a length. McDowell was after him at full speed, soon collared him, and when they reached open water began to pass him.
Then to everybody's astonishment, Hogan showed signs of being winded, and of losing his head. He collided with almost everything in sight, and was thrice mixed up with the poles.

McDowell slowed up, looked complacently at his rival, and then proceeded toward the finish very quietly, and as if he were out rowing for pleasure. Indeed, he almost Hogan to overtake him, and they MUST SELL NO FEATHERS.

Massachusetts Milliners Aroused Over the New Law to Protect the Birds There.

Boston, July 15.—The law against selling birds, their bodies or feathers, which the last Legislature passed, was today officially communicated to the milliners and dealers in birds throughout the Commonwealth. Senator Roe, of Worcester, is the father of the new law, and United States Senator Hoar is said to have written the petition in answer to which the act was drawn.

The petition purported to be signed by thirty-five undomesticated birds, and is an ingenious plea that "no one shall wear our feathers, so that no one shall kill us to get them." The millinery trade is up in arms over the enactment. What the result is to be will depend on the extent to which enforcement is carried.

RISKS LIFE FOR AIRSHIP.
Williams, After a Year of Labor, Has His Flying Machine Ready for a Trial Trip.

Laporte, Ind., July 15.—Harry L. Williams, living near Lagrange, will try to make an ascension with a flying machine which is of his own invention. The machine will be attached to a hot air balloon and will be automatically released when high enough. It will be operated in its flight by mechanism similar to that of a bicycle.

Williams, who is a daring aeronaut, claims a velocity of 500 revolutions per minute for his machine. He has devoted a year of labor to perfecting his invention, which he claims is superior to all other flying machines. The trial trip will be made within the next ten days, and Williams says he will sacrifice his life if necessary to make a trip through space.

WILL BE LADY GLIN.
Earl of Dunraven's Daughter to Be Married to a Titular Irishman Unrecognized by DeBrett.

London, July 15.—A marriage has been arranged between Lady Rachel Charlotte Quin, eldest daughter of the Earl of Dun-raven, and Mr. Fitzgerald, of Glilo Castle, Limerick, who bears the historical, though unauthorized, title of the Knight of Glin.
The marriage will take place in October.

The suit involves $500,000,000, and liminary steps to it were taken before Judge Moses Hallett, in States Circuit Court, in Denver.
It is a lawyer, who lives at Me on the Kingsbridge road.

This suit, in which hundreds of are at stake, is brought by the Essential stockholders of the Archer Consolidation Mines at Leadville against John F. Capion, Clinton Reed, of the Ithex Mtn Company, and others. Mr. Capion lives at Leadville, and is himself worth millions in mines and deeply interested in the Archer Consolidation, which is made of the "Home, Sweet Home," the "Palmer" and other mines.

The plaintiff, the Eastern stockholders, have falsified their reports of the Archer Consolidation. The stockholders declare that $30,000,000 has been from one mine in the Consolidation.
They charge that this mine was day and night by men trusted by Cap-ion and Reed, who entered a secret channel through an aperture that came in with the "Little Johnny" mine. The "Little Johnny" mine, say the stockholders, has nearly petered out, but the gold came from a quartz lead in the A Consolidation Mines has been taken

Reed have under lease.

The stockholders, through their lawyer, aver that there are bodies of gold-quartz worth $500,000,000 in their mine in the Archer Consolidation, and that they have not received their dividends royalties on the vast amount of gold already smuggled out through the "Littie Johnny" shaft.

They ask for an accounting and appropriate for the properties.

BERNHARDT'S SWEAK KNEE.
Refused to Attend a Portsmouth Clception Because She "Couldn't Climb the Steps."

Portsmouth, England, July Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, who arrived today on her provincial tour, provided an amusing disappointment for the municipal authorities.

They had made elaborate arrangements to give her a formal civic reception, and assembled in the town hall in their munic-pal robes, awaiting the tragedienne.

At the last moment Mme. Bernhardt refused to attend the reception, giving as the reason that she did not feel enough to climb the steps.
